

Abstract

The invention features a method for inactivating parasites in biological compositions. The method includes contacting the biological composition with an aziridino compound under parasite inactivating conditions.